

Final Closing

Last Updated Tuesday, 29 July 2008

Providing valuable resources for our [Profile.market] Real Estate Buyers and Sellers is our top priority.

It is important to have your homes inspected before the final closing occurs. Inspections for insects, radon, and building quality should be performed. Your homeowner's insurance and mortgage should be finalized also. Make sure all the necessary paper work and deposits have been completed before you arrive at the closing.

Other tasks to complete include: turning on electricity, phone service, subscribing to the local paper, setting up an alarm system, cleaning or replacing the carpet, etc.
